This project starts in 2015 at the Science and Non Duality Conference where she attended a one day seminar performed by the artist Meriel Gold that teaches a method called “Drawing Home”.

Those portraits are experiential events that utilize the free drawing with mixed media to represent people who do not pose professionally and who move and talk during the posing.

They agree to connect at a deeper level and to open themselves, they usually choose their favorite music during the process so that the artist can represent what she feels as their soul.
